

April 6, 2006

Hello,

I just wanted to express my concern about hearing that Walmart wants to open itself as a bank. It's bad enough that they move into a town and take over all the small business', now they want to take over our direct cash flow. They have been continually in the news about bad business practices, like not paying over time or taking advantage of their female employees. Here in Maine, they promised a certain number of hirings to get a storage building constructed, and then didn't follow through on their promise. So why would the government then want to give them even MORE power over a community. PLEASE DO NOT allow Walmart to take over more of America. I have not visited one of their stores in over 10 years, and I can still shop and find things I need without them. :)

Thank you,

Anne Beal